Welcome to the Kennewick Church of Christ

Introducing Luke

Luke, a physician, writes with the compassion and warmth of a family doctor as he carefully documents the perfect humanity of the Son of Man, Jesus Christ. Luke emphasizes Jesus' ancestry, birth and early life before moving carefully and chronologically through his earthly ministry.

Growing belief and growing opposition develop side by side. Those who believe are challenged to count the cost of discipleship. Those who oppose will not be satisfied until the Son of Man hangs lifeless on a cross. But the Resurrection ensures that his purpose will be fulfilled: "to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10).

Kata Loukan, "According to Luke," is the ancient title that was added to this gospel at a very early date. The Greek name Luke appears only three times in the New Testament (Col 4:14; 2 Tim. 4:11; Philem. 24).

Jesus last recorded words on earth are a supplement to the Great Commission: "You shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth" (Acts 1:8). The Book of Acts, written by Luke, is the story of the men and women who took that commission seriously and began to spread the news of a risen Savior to the most remote corners of the known world.

Each section of the book (1-7; 8-12; 13-28) focuses on a particular audience, a key personality, and a significant phase in the expansion of the gospel message.

As the second volume in a two-part work by Luke, this book probably had no separate title. But all available Greek manuscripts designate it by the title Praxeis, "Acts" or by an expanded title like "The Acts of the Apostles." Praxeis was commonly used in Greek literature to summarize the accomplishments of outstanding men. While the apostles are mentioned collectively, at several points, this book really records the acts of Peter (1-12) and of Paul (13-28).

Daily Devotions

What Motive then to Right Living?

If we are no longer under the Law, and Christ forgives our sins, then why not continue to sin? Keep on sinning, and Christ keeps on forgiving.

Paul answers that such a thing is unthinkable. Christ died to save us from our sins. His forgiveness is for the purpose of making us hate our sins.

We cannot be servants of sins, and servants of Christ. We must choose one or the other. It is not possible to please Christ, and continue at the same time to live in Sin.

This does not mean that we can entirely overcome all our sins and place ourselves beyond the need of his mercy. But it does mean that there are two essentially different Ways of Life: the Way of Christ and the Way of Sin. In heart, we belong to one or the other, but not both.

Christ, the perfect embodiment of the Law of God, furnishes us with the motive, and supplies us with the power, to struggle on unto the attainment for ourselves of that perfect holiness which, by His grace, ultimately shall be ours.

-H.H. Halley

Don't think about what can happen in a month. Don't think about what can happen in a year. Just focus on the 24 hours in front of you and do what you can to get closer to where you want to be.

(6)Therefore as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in him, (7) having been firmly rooted and now being built up in Him and established in your faith, just as you were instructed, and overflowing with gratitude. (8) See to it that no one takes you captive through philosophy and empty deception, according to the tradition of men, according to the elementary principles of the world, rather than according to Christ. (9) For in Him all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form, (10) and in Him you have been made complete, and He is the head over all rule and authority; Col 2:6-10
